THE First Saturday Sale

for June I propose making a "drummer." It seems that my competitors are getting rather jealous of my success. I take it as quite a compliment that they read my "ads" so regularly. I know this by their feeble attempts to "follow suit." Notice one thing, however, and that is when I advertise a great bargain they put up an inferior article at a similar price. Look out for this.

For Saturday and Monday I announce the following unparalleled bargains:

1 Lot Box Paper at 3 cents a box, 24 sheet paper and envelopes, fair quality, at only 10 cents a box. A two-cent stamp buys a box.

100 Boxes of writing paper and envelopes, good, fair quality, at only 10 cents a box. A two-cent stamp buys a box.

300 writing tablets at 2 for 5 cents. Regular 10-cent grade, but sold on a close out sometimes at 10 cents.

100 writing tablets at 2 for 5 cents. Regular 10-cent grade, but sold on a close out sometimes at 10 cents.

The great sale of extra varieties of regular 10-cent tablets at 5 cents still continues. Shuffled or plain, and all good for ink.

At 5 cents a copy 1 offer

Uncle Tom's Cabin Rider Haggard's "She," Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables," "Scarlet Letter" and "Twice Told Tales," all in paper covers at only 25c each. The largest assortment of cheap books.

Barriers Burned Away, in paper 10c; 25c by mail. In beautiful red and white cloth binding, 27c; or 32c by mail.

Reveries of a Bachelor and Dream in real cloth binding, 11c each; 15c by mail. Look out for spurious editions.

The Scarlet Letter and House of Seven Gables in beautiful red and white cloth bindings at only 17c each; 25c by mail.

Shakespeare's Complete Works in good cloth binding, 1,124 pages, only $5c; $1 by mail. Shakespeare in three volumes, handsome library cloth binding, only $1.50 for the set. Publisher's price $4.50. Sent only by express.

Helen's Babies, By John Habberton; paper covers, only 25c. All of Mrs. Southworth's works in paper covers at only 25c each. This includes "ISRAEL" and also the "SEQUEL." All copyright works. Try the Bargain Book Store, quick.

DEMOCRATS IN A QUANDARY

Opposing Majority Forces Fighting for an Early and a Late Convention.

Charges of Wholesale Corruption in the Last County Powwow—Republican Primaries To-Night.

THE DEMOCRATIC CAT FIGHT.

Questions Before the City Committee—Charges of Corruption in the Convention.

The Democratic city committee is to meet this afternoon to decide upon a date for the convention which is to name the candidate for Mayor. The Sullivan crowd, under the lead of Factotum Patsy Gorman, the Mayor's right-hand man in this contest, will make a fight to have the convention held not earlier than Sept. 1. This side also wants the Australian system of voting in the selection of delegates to the convention. The Downing faction, composed of those Democrats who sneer at the Sullivan crowd as the self-styled "better element," in spite of the fact that Sullivan has the endorsement of the saloon keepers, will insist on an early convention, but say they are indifferent whether the Australian system is used or not. The insinuations by the Sullivanites in giving their reasons for the use of the booth system, as detailed in the evening organ of this side, nettled the friends of Downing. They deny that they were ready to bolt at the last county convention, and say that the fact that it was a year of a national contest was not essential to their loyalty to the party. The Sullivanites charge the open buying of delegates with gold pieces in the denominations of $5 and $10, and the making of saloons over repeated drinks. This part of the charge is not denied so strenuously as the other, for the reason that a "little thing" like the buying of votes in a convention or in an election where it can be done safely does not disturb those who are in charge of the Democratic campaign.

City Chairman Taggart is still unable to say just where he is. The appointment as president of the street railway has not been offered to him by the board, but only by Mr. McDonald, who is not a member of the board. It is therefore not official and not in an acceptable form as Mr. Taggart had hoped it would be before this meeting to-day. If appointed president of the company he will be for Downing, but if not, and he is not relieved of his city chairmanship, he prefers to risk the chances of success with Sullivan.

PRIMARIES TO-NIGHT.

Republicans to Elect Committeemen in Four Wards and Several Other Precincts.

When the precinct committeemen were elected, last Monday night, some of the wards and several precincts in other wards failed to elect committeemen. Chairman Trustar, of the city committee, has issued the following call for such wards and precincts:

The Republicans in the following wards and precincts will meet at the places named below, at half-past 7 o'clock, to-night, for the purpose of electing precinct committeemen.

Twelfth Ward—Columbia Hall.
Fourteenth Ward—Mohr Hall.
Eleventh Ward—City office, Board of Trade Building.
Fifth Ward—No. 6 engine house.
Ninth Ward—Precincts 79, 80, 81, 82 and 83—Southwest corner of English avenue and Reed street.
Fifteenth Ward—Precincts 155, 156, 157, 158 and 159—Colored church, corner of Morris and Maple streets.
P. C. TRUSTAR, Chairman.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 3, 1893.

HAUGHVILLE'S CONVIVIAL TOWN BOARD.

Shaw Testifies that He Was "Rushing the Growler" for It the Night of Tarpey's Murder.

Wednesday night's tragedy is still the topic in Haughville, and the slayer of John Tarpey is still at large. The murdered man will be buried from the Catholic Church this morning.

Yesterday Coroner Beck secured the evidence of Tom Shaw, who stood at the side of Tarpey when he fell. Shaw states that on the night of the murder he dropped in on the Town Board about 12 o'clock, and found present the men who afterwards accompanied him to the saloon. They sent him out after a bucket of beer, which he procured at the Shaw saloon, at the same time telling the bartender that the Town Board was in session, and they would "all be around after awhile." It would seem, from the testimony given by Shaw, that the members of the board were not above an occasional glass of grog during the progress of their meeting, and this fact will perhaps serve to explain why four men should stand by, witness the brutal shooting of one of their number, and make no attempt to interfere with the murderer in his fight. Even a couple of hours after the murder occurred, the town officials were not clear-headed enough to give a very accurate account of the tragedy.

GAS BELT ELECTRIC ROAD.

Officers Elected by the Company Formed at Noblesville.

The Central Indiana Electrical Railway Company, which was organized at Noblesville, is composed of capitalists from London, Philadelphia, Chicago and other points, who, it is said, have at their command ample resources to insure the early completion and successful operation of the entire system, extending over the gas belt.

The officers of the company are: J. T. Baker, president; W. R. Keefe, first vice president; Thomas Wilkinson, second vice president; N. D. Pontius, secretary; R. T. Wilkinson, treasurer; L. D. A. Gies, general manager. The company has secured rooms in Noblesville and is fitting up permanent headquarters from which all the affairs of the company will be directed.

BALL GAME TO-DAY.

Contest Between the Indianapolis Club and Heavyweights of Chicago.

There will be a ball game to-day at Y. M. C. Park that ought to prove highly interesting. The match will be between Indianapolis and the Chicago Heavyweights, each member of which carries in excess of two hundred pounds live weight. The same clubs play to-morrow at the Club Park. Both games will be called at 3:30 o'clock, and ex-manager Harrington will umpire. Following is the batting order:

Heavyweights—Kurtz, c.; Gies, 2b; Day, ss.; Rooks, c. f.; O'Connor, p.; Hallstrom, 1b; Gallahan, 3b; Fisher, 2b; F. Schaub, c. f.; E. Donovan, 1b; J. Sowders, r. f.; W. Sowders, 1b; Baker, c. f.; Schaub, 3b; White, c. f.; Shepherd or Waters, p.

Encouragement Encouraged.

The Citizens' Executive Board has issued a pamphlet entitled, "With the Veterans in 1893." It is intended to give information to the posts and the members who desire beforehand to know something about the city. They will be mailed to any who ask for them. The book contains a sketch of the city from Mr. Allen Hendricks, secretary of the committee. Various cuts are given of places of note, but very slight reference is made to the monument, which will be a surprise to the visitors.

At the Park Theater.

Frank Murphy closes a week's engagement at the Park Theater to-night in "A Striking Resemblance." Next week will close the regular season at this house. The attraction will be the character actor, Mr. J. W. Carner, in "Hip Van Winkle" and "Wider World." Miss Carrie Louis, who was to appear with him, is seriously ill at her home, and cannot be here.

Charged with Stealing a Watch.

Mrs. Laura Ferguson and her daughter-in-law, Lucinda Ferguson, were arrested last night by officers Hoefgen and Brady on the charge of petty larceny. The charge is made by a commercial traveler, who avers that the women received a ring of a certain value, the other afternoon, while he was sleeping in their house, at No. 136 Hoshbrook street. Mrs. Ferguson indignantly denies the charge, and says that the drummer, W. T. Hopkins, came to her house and asked to rent a room for one afternoon, requesting her to make him up a bed in the time he did so, and he at once accused her of taking his time-piece.

EVER-FRIENDLY BUNCO MAN

Timothy Taylor, a Guileless Youth from Sanford, Ill., Falls Into His Toils.

"Done" Out of a Ten-Dollar Bill by a Kindly Gray-Bearded Acquaintance at the Union Station Yesterday.

Timothy Taylor, a bucolic young man, whose mission in life is to attend the swine and till the soil in the vicinity of Sanford, Ill., had an experience at the Union Station yesterday. A sad experience it was, but it was not without its lesson. Tim is a youth of twenty-four, and able to travel alone, did he not have the faculty of passing the time of day with every stranger he chances to meet. He dropped into the station, yesterday morning, from one of the eastern Indiana towns, where he had been sojourning for a week, and discovered that he had several hours to while away ere his train left. He was pensively sauntering around the station, hands deep in his pockets, when he was approached by a stranger. The latter was a gray-bearded man, tastefully attired and not a bit presumptuous. Slapping Tim on the back, the old man exclaimed:

"Hello, Smith, how are all the boys over in Ohio?"

"Well," replied Tim, "my name isn't Smith, and I don't live in Ohio. I'm from Sanford, Ill., and I'm waiting for the train to leave now."

"Oh, excuse my mistake," quoth the stranger, "but it's lucky my meeting you. I'm on my way to Sanford myself. My name is Brown, and I'm glad to meet you. Funny I made such an error."

But Tim forgave Brown, and they shook hands. Then they walked about for a time, and Brown demonstrated the fact that he was an expert in the line of agriculture. In half an hour the pair were fast friends, and conversation was becoming charmingly confidential—for Brown. "By Jove," he remarked, after affairs had reached about the proper pitch: "I must get it before we leave for Sanford. Taylor, would you mind walking up to the express agency with me?"

Taylor, having assured himself that there was plenty of time, agreed to the proposition, and with his arm linked in Brown's, started. They had traversed Illinois street a couple of blocks when Brown spied an individual approaching, and as this person was about to pass, exclaimed:

"Well, here's luck. The express man, just the party I'm looking for," and halting the latter inquired about his package.

"Oh, I left that at the depot for you, but say, there is $10 charges on it!" explained the agent.

Then Brown was in a quandary. He had left his pocketbook in his light overcoat in charge of the baggage man at the station. It was hardly necessary for the "expressman" to walk back with them if Taylor had a ten about him. Taylor had, and out came a couple of blocks when Brown spied an individual approaching, and as this person was about to pass, exclaimed:

"Well, here's luck. The express man, just the party I'm looking for," and halting the latter inquired about his package.

"Oh, I left that at the depot for you, but say, there is $10 charges on it!" explained the agent.

Now I've gone and forgot to get a receipt from that express agent. You go on to the depot, Taylor, and I'll go back and get it." It was a peculiar look that the young man cast upon his companion that moment, and the old fellow interpreted it. With the heartiest sort of a laugh he poked his victim in the ribs and said:

"I see, my boy, you are suspicious of the old man. Now run right to the station, find my baggage and my overcoat, and take charge of them until I return; then we'll fix this up."

With a keen little pang of conscience to think that he had for a moment suspected his new-found friend, the Illinois youth apologized so humbly that Brown, of course, pardoned him instantly, and disappeared up Illinois street in search of the "expressman."

Timothy sought the station and the baggage man, whom he asked for the privilege of looking upon Brown's valises and light spring overcoat. Strangely enough, there were no goods checked for Brown, but it required considerable time for the young man to grapple with the truth. He had his primary lesson in the ways of the confidence man, when he told the story at police headquarters and was informed that Detectives Thornton and McGuffey were seeking the gray-bearded man and his confederate, the "express agent."

Miss Holliday's Lover Arrested.

Detective explains to night located Everett Thorp, the Indiana young man who last week furnished a revolver in the face of Miss Lida Holliday, a clerk in the New York store. Young Thorp was placed under arrest, but was liberated after his father signed a bond for his appearance in court this morning.

Schullers.

Shrewd business men think that the improvement of Monument Place will give business a northward direction. In order to head the procession, Julius A. Schuller has established a Wine Emporium at No. 106 and 108 North Meridian street, where he proposes to inaugurate a new system in catering to fine trade. Mr. Schuller is a connoisseur in foreign and domestic wines, and handles the best. He makes a specialty of pure California wines. At his rooms, which have been handsomely fitted up, persons desiring pure wine can procure it by the glass, half bottle, bottle, gallon, case or cask. He buys by the carload, and, besides being absolutely pure, his wines are very cheap. Stop and buy a bottle to take home to your family or try a glass for your stomach's sake.
